My question has to do with registry modification (a scary idea), how can I control that where there are 30 users scattered across a large manufacturing facility with 40 or so buildings?

Note the reg keys are hkey_local_machine. If all the users have admin rights to their machines then you could provide VBA code; if the system admins have the machines locked down there's not much you can do.

Changing the registry keys is not the solution in all cases, of course; with 30 machines it may not even be worth contemplating. Not using Excel to store data may be the solution <vbg>.
