You've posted to a newsgroup dedicated to supporting Microsoft Access, a relational database product. You'll probably get more responses if you post to a newsgroup supporting Outlook (assuming that is the software you were using when you got that message).

I got some sort of pop up box asking if I would like to save space by compacting messages. I said yes not really knowing what it was exactly but thought it would be a good idea. Now I have lost half my inbox and was wondering if anyone can tell me how I get it back?
Thanks
