I am trying to login into a database and have forgetton the password, any help in the best way to get around this? I know, and it won't happen again!

Do you mean the database password? If there's another user around who uses it, just ask them.

If you mean a ULS username and password, then you could have your db admin clear your password.

If you have no DB Admin, then there are plenty of utilities on the web which will assist you with this, a quick internet search for "access password recovery" will turn up several dozen.
