We have a fulltime broadband connection from our ISP in the UK BTOpenworld, and were wondering how we configure our emails to be sent directly to us instead of us picking up from a POP3 box at the ISP.

BTOpenWorld have given us a static IP address. We send out mail through their SMTP server.

We are currently facing the problem where we are getting mail HELO errors when sending out to a particular recipient as they are conducting a postfix check.

Please can someone give me pointers on how to do this.

Thanks,

Sachin
