

Re: User account

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/BackOffice/microsoft.public.backoffice.smallbiz2000/2004-04/1755.html>

---

From: Cris Hanna \((SBS-MVP)\) (crisnospamhanna_at_mindspring.com)

Date: 04/28/04

Date: Wed, 28 Apr 2004 11:18:44 -0500

I'm not sure how you can get it back...

If you log onto the server as Administrator (don't use any other account)...go to AD Users and Computers you cannot access the users Properties??

As for access to the inbox...I believe you could disable that through the Exchange tabs

--

Cris Hanna (SBS-MVP)

-----
Please DO NOT respond directly to me but rather in the newsgroup so that everyone can benefit

"Vienie" <anonymous@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message news:08557DBA-D2AE-4082-8FBB-6AC5EF271941@microsoft.com...

> Hope someone can help me. I found an article on how to go into a user's > properties and under permissions deny the user permission to get to their > mailbox. I did not want to disable to account. However, when I went in > and disabled full control for the "self" the user's account is > inaccessible within AD users and computers. It has a windows icon next to > it and If I go to the properties it tells me that the information cannot > be displayed. This Domain admin had permission on this account and I did > not change any permission there, just the Self. Is there anyway I can get > this account back the way it was or do I have to delete it entirely?????
>
>