Tom,

By any chance, did you create the map in the project root and then move it to the /map folder? Have you tried right-clicking the /map folder and selecting add->add new item...and then creating your map file in the /map folder? Please let me know so I can confirm we are dealing with apples and apples.

Thanks,

Hi Tom,

I just wanted to let you know this is still under investigation.
Please keep checking back for my response.

The quick answer as we know right now is to save everything to the root. I am following up with development to find out if this was intentional.
Thanks for your patience.

Thanks a lot, Mike. Looking forward to your answer. I investigated again, but couldn't find a solution so far.
