Michael D. Alligood [CertGuard] piffled away vaguely:

As far as changing my approach, you know nothing about me or my approach. I have mentored hundreds of people who are serious about learning and wanting to excel in the I.T. field. My advice and techniques, however disagreeable to you, help more than hinder.

Add to that, a mentor isn't wishy-washy. You do more of a disservice to those you are trying to help by being too soft when it comes to fundamentals.
