

Re: cybex training

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Certification/microsoft.public.cert.exam.mcse/2004-05/0386.html>

From: Consultant (consultant_mcngr_at_yahoo.com)

Date: 05/05/04

Date: Wed, 5 May 2004 09:27:46 -0700 you will never reach the level im at.

<anonymous@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message
news:8a5601c432bc$8fb523b0$a401280a@phx.gbl...

> sorry to invite your sarcasm but i meant i have installed > the infrastructure (the hardwiring and the actual > network/hubs/switches.fibre) and not from a doc. and so i > meant i would now like to learn it from the other angle > as this surely helps that i know it from both sides.
> obviously i wont know nearly as much as you but some of > us are looking for HELPFULL! advice and need to climb to > the godly levels that you are obviously at.
> thank you for you insite
> i will forget it quickly and listen to real advice
> >-----Original Message----- > >wow, you can install?
> >consulting involves alot more then installing from a > build doc.

>>

>><anonymous@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message
>>news:89fc01c432a9$b9739c80$a601280a@phx.gbl...

>>> well i would like to become a consultant but i dont > want >>> to waste my time on training for something that no one >>> really uses. i have experiance in installing network >>> infrastructure and have also looked after an NT and > win2k
>>> network

>>> >-----Original Message-----

>>> >what are you working with and what do you plan to work >>> >with remeber server '03 is the new thing and most >>> companys >>> >will be moving to it but remember there are still some >>> on >>> >nt

>>> >>-----Original Message-----

>>> >>i have recently been given a cybex home study > training

> >> >>kit for Mcse windows 2k.
> >> >>i this still worth studying or should i be > conontrating
> >> >>on another route.
> >> >>and would a prince qualification be worth having?
> >> >>.
> >> >>
> >> >.
> >> >
> >
> >
> >.
> >