

Re: Jet Database Driver Documentation

Source: <http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Data/microsoft.public.data.oledb/2004-06/0094.html>

From: Llelan D. (NOSPAM_at_TheSnakePitDev.com)

Date: 06/15/04

Date: Tue, 15 Jun 2004 02:18:51 -0700

Kevin Yu [MSFT] wrote:

> First of all, I would like to confirm my understanding of your issue. From your description, I understand that you need to get documentation of SQL syntax and SQL function that Jet 4 driver supports. If there is any misunderstanding, please feel free to let me know.

You are half correct. I also need the docs to the ODBC Microsoft Access driver, which the MS site says is a separate driver. I need to know what the differences are, if any, between the two.

> Based on my research, if you have Access installed on your machine, a file named JETSQL40.CHM will be included in the following folder: (I have Access 2003 installed. Please adjust according to version and language.)

I managed to find this Sunday night. That help doc actually appears in the Access help doc, but it doesn't specify a version number. As I have Access 2000, I had thought it was for a previous version. It wasn't until I found the help filename that I realized it was for the current v4.

However, this does not help anyone who does not have Access. Since the driver is a freely available download, I was looking for a download site for the doc. This will be needed when the Jet driver is upgraded, since I never again intend to waste money on a MS Office upgrade.

For now, it does satisfy the current need for the Jet driver, but not the ODBC Microsoft Access driver. Does anyone know where the docs that specify the supported SQL language and functions are for that one?

Thanks! Your help is greatly appreciated.

--

The Snake Pit - Development www.TheSnakePitDev.com
Curtis Clauson LlelanD@TheSnakePitDev.com
Proprietor
"Any sufficiently over-complicated magic is indistinguishable from technology." -- Llelan D.