

Re: need some serious help here!!!

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Development/microsoft.public.development.device.drivers/2004-12/1217.html>

From: Mark Roddy (markr_at_hollistech.com)

Date: 12/30/04

Date: Thu, 30 Dec 2004 08:32:51 -0500

Don Burn wrote:

- > You should be able to figure out what is going on from the log files, you
- > might try
- >
- > build -bw
- >
- > or for a first time
- >
- > build -cefbw
- >
- > Note the latter will do a full rebuild. If you are still having problems
- > post the log here.
- >
- > You can invoke build from visual studio using the DDKBUILD tool from
- > <http://www.hollistech.com/>. You should not try to build a driver directly
- > with visual c++, things are tricky enough that "experts" who try this leave
- > time bombs for others to clean up.
- >
- >

Using ddkbuild will give you the IDE's ability to point and click on the error messages from build and end up in the editor at the offending line of code. That is all. However if you cannot make heads or tails of the error output from the log file I suspect that this will not be of much help.

--

=====

Mark Roddy DDK MVP
Windows 2003/XP/2000 Consulting
Hollis Technology Solutions 603-321-1032
www.hollistech.com