

Data Layer and UI Layer

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/DotNet/microsoft.public.dotnet.framework.adonet/2005-10/msg00506.html>

- From: "Rob Quet" <RobQuet@xxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Thu, 13 Oct 2005 09:19:33 -0500
-

Hi,

I learned that we should keep Data Layer separate from User Interface layer.

My question is should we :

1. Keep Data Layer code in a separate project
2. Add a new class for Data Layer within the same project where user interface code exists.

Thanks

Rob

.

- Follow-Ups:
 - ◆ Re: Data Layer and UI Layer
 - ◇ From: shiv_koirala
- Prev by Date: Re: .Net -> DB2
- Next by Date: Re: How do you uniquely identify a connection in a connection pool
- Previous by thread: Updating the database with the dataset data????
- Next by thread: Re: Data Layer and UI Layer
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread