Hi,

whether it's possible to access client's Outlook calendar information from the ASP.net application?

We want to develop an intranet application in which

- 1)the user who logs on to the intranet application should be able to access the outlook calendar info that's installed on that particular PC(where the browser is running) and
- 2)ASP.net application should update the calendar info of the outlook,installed on that PC.

Can anybody pls help me....

Thanks in advance

Srinivas
