

Re: COM+ and Remoting

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/DotNet/microsoft.public.dotnet.framework.component_services/2004-04/0078.h

From: Ashish Sheth (eashishsheth_at_ureach.com)

Date: 04/23/04

Date: Fri, 23 Apr 2004 18:35:41 +0530

thanks Jose,

but i need some more info??

from past 4 hours i m looking for this..

can you provide more info on how i can expose COM+ server application and COM+ library application using remoting? what are the pros and cons?

It is so urgent for me

regards

Ashish

"José Miguel Torres" <jtorres_diaz~~ARROBA~~terra.es> wrote in message news:%23juuhGSKEHA.2624@TK2MSFTNGP09.phx.gbl...

> yes, you can access with proxy. I think you need SOAP, see web services....

>

> "Ashish Sheth" <eashishsheth@ureach.com> escribió en el mensaje > news:#VuazVQKEHA.2624@TK2MSFTNGP09.phx.gbl...

>> Hi Dot net gurus..

>> Can I access a COM+ component in an application running on different machine? How can I do this?

>> Can I use .NET remoting for this? what are the design issues I should >> consider when accessing COM+ components using .NET remoting? what other >> options I have if I want my components to be accessed by applications >> running on other machines?

>>

>> Please help me... this is urgent..

>>

>> --

>> regards,

>> Ashish Sheth

>>

>>

>

>