Hi Earl,

Thanks very much for your feedback.

Actually, for your issue, I still did not find a way to reproduce out. Does this problem occur in other machines on your side?

Winform DataGrid is a very general control in .Net, which should not have this display issue, at least in most situation. I think this problem should due to some system issue of your specific machine. To determine this, if you want, you may create a sample little project for me to reproduce it.

Thank you for your patience and cooperation. If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to post it in the group. I am standing by to be of assistance.

Best regards,

Jeffrey Tan
