

Re: Clickonce and license question question

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/DotNet/microsoft.public.dotnet.framework.windowsforms/2008-08/msg00128.h>

- From: "Patrice" <<http://www.chez.com/scribe/>>
 - Date: Mon, 25 Aug 2008 11:34:21 +0200
-

Depending on how complex it is, you could perhaps also post to a form or pass parameters using querystring to your server but IMO the first step would be likely to check what is blocked exactly when using a web service.

--
Patrice

We
switched the registration so that it now uses a webservice instead of directly linking to the SQL server but we are still having problems with some corporate users / firewalls.