

Re: .NET Framework not installed message

Source: <http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/DotNet/microsoft.public.dotnet.framework/2004-10/0177.html>

---

From: Nick Malik (nickmalik\_at\_hotmail.nospam.com)

Date: 10/03/04

Date: Sun, 03 Oct 2004 06:44:49 GMT

I'm guessing that your domain user may not have read/execute permissions on the .NET directories.

Other than that, I'm not sure...

--- Nick

"RickV" <RickV@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message news:2C8EEAE6-2398-454A-A452-5430F4FEBB19@microsoft.com...

> I've installed an app I've written onto a clients machine using a local administrator account, and the app works fine (Simple C# app using an MDB database).

>

> When logging back into the machine as a domain user (locked down desktop) and running the new .net app I get a message saying that the .net framework > is not installed.

>

> Ok, so I do a "run as with the admin account" on the framework installation, > while logged in as the user with the locked down desktop. I then get the message that the framework is already installed.

>

> Is there some security that the locked down user cannot access a resource?

>

> I'm confused.

>

> Thanks,

> Rick

> --

> Rick Viera

> Entergy