

Re: Deploying .Net Web Application to a server with multiple sites

Source: <http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/DotNet/microsoft.public.dotnet.general/2004-03/0748.html>

---

From: joshua drew (josh.drew\_at\_byteinteractive.com)

Date: 03/08/04

Date: 8 Mar 2004 12:19:58 -0800

josh.drew@byteinteractive.com (joshua drew) wrote in message news:<132abd01.0403051110.17245445@posting.google.com>...

> I have multiple .Net web apps that live on a web server that hosts multiple .Net sites.

>

> I want to use the Web Application Installer but it looks like it installs the web app in the default web site (the one that is x:\inetpub\wwwroot. I need it to go to another web site.

>

> Each web sites use different ips and some use host header names. Is there a way to specify the site to release to not a virtual directory. I need it to go to a site.

>

> Thanks in advance.

Ok. I found another post that had the answer which was requesting a patch from MS. That seems to be the trick.