

Re: How to recover corrupted IIS log file

Source: <http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/DotNet/microsoft.public.dotnet.general/2004-03/1529.html>

From: Pegasus \ (MVP\) (I.can_at_fly.com)

Date: 03/16/04

Date: Tue, 16 Mar 2004 15:02:45 +1100

You could use a lister such as list.com to see what's inside.
The next step depends on what you find.

"anon" <anon@hotmail.com> wrote in message
news:eT8IARwCEHA.2600@TK2MSFTNGP12.phx.gbl...

> Hello,

>

> I have a 7.5 MB IIS 5.0 log file...at least that's what windows says the > file is.

>

> When I open it or try to download it, I get zippo, an empty notepad window,

> or an empty file when trying to FTP and download it.

>

> I need this log file as it's one of the busiest days ever and now it's > corrupt.

>

> It seems like the next day's IIS logfile is good..so that's good

>

> thanks.

>

>

>