hi,

I have a very strange problem on my login Page. the Page was working fine a few days back, but now does not generate post back events for controls. this login page uses form based authentication.

Whenever the button is clicked, no event is raised, infact it doesnt even go to the page_load as well. Events are registered and there is no problem with the code because the same code is working fine on Windows XP machine. The machine which is giving problem is Windows 2000 Advanced server.

If I redirect the request forcefully to another page, everything works perfectly fine across application, except this login.aspx.

its urgent,

thanks in advance.
