

Re: Argument exception Urgent

---

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/DotNet/microsoft.public.dotnet.general/2005-10/msg00754.html>

---

- From: Jon Skeet [C# MVP] <skeet@xxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Tue, 25 Oct 2005 07:29:03 +0100
-

Peter <Peter@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

> I have asp.net code using C# that will convert tif file into jpg and then it > display them. The program works on my machine and Dev machine with Window XP > professional. When I deploy the program on test machine (window 2003 server)
> I get error:
>
> Argument Exception Invalid parameter used"
>
> The code that causes the error is:
>
> byte[] imgbyte;
> MemoryStream memStream = new MemoryStream(imgByte.Length);
> memStream.Write(imgByte, 0 , imgByte.Length);
> System.Drawing.Image.FromStream(memStream);

Well, I'm sure that isn't the whole of the code which causes the error, as that wouldn't compile.

However, you should really put the position of the stream back to 0 before passing it to Image.FromStream – you're asking it to read from a stream which is already at the end at the moment.

—

Jon Skeet – <skeet@xxxxxxxx>

<http://www.pobox.com/~skeet> Blog: <http://www.msmvps.com/jon.skeet>

If replying to the group, please do not mail me too

.

-
- Prev by Date: ***Re: Get Assembly Type Names Without Loading The Assembly***
  - Next by Date: ***Re: .config file – writing to it?***
  - Previous by thread: ***Re: RegExp: incrementing digit in replacement expressions***
  - Next by thread: ***Re: Exception related to machine.config***
  - Index(es):
    - ◆ ***Date***
    - ◆ ***Thread***