First, I'm extremely new to C# and the Microsoft Visual Studio IDE. I am in the middle of writing a small web application that communicates to a database server and sends out email confirmations. I've got the database connection going okay, but I'm having problems trying to find a good way to send an email. I have found a couple products online, but buying a tool is not an option. So I need to figure out how to use what I have.

I'm looking for a small coded example. If anyone has one, that would be great. If not, can someone point me into a good direction.

Thanks,
