

Re: Transparent – does it work?

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/DotNet/microsoft.public.dotnet.languages.csharp/2006-01/msg00903.html>

- From: "UJ" <fred@xxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Fri, 6 Jan 2006 13:03:06 -0500
-

Thanks for the info. But that article appears to work only with static images/items. I need to make a panel that is transparent to a web browser/shockwave file that can be changing.

Jeff.

"Stoitcho Goutsev (100) [C# MVP]" <100@xxxxxxx> wrote in message <news:uPVyhHuEGHA.272@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>

> Jeff,

>

> The same question was asked yesterday or the day before. Jeffrey Tan from

> Microsoft has suggested looking at the following article:

> <http://addressof.com/blog/articles/282.aspx>

>

>

> --

> HTH

> Stoitcho Goutsev (100)

>

> "UJ" <fred@xxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message

> <news:uVIY44tEGHA.272@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>

>> I've got multiple controls on a win forms page – and I have a panel that

>> I want the user to be able to click on to have something happen which I >> have put on top of some of the control. I make the panel transparent but >> it doesn't show what's behind it, it shows the form background.

>>

>> Is there anyway to have something transparent so it shows what's behind >> it, not the form?

>>

>> What I'm really trying to do is have a shockwave or browser control be >> able to be clicked and something happen. I don't want the normal clicking >> like on a web site to happen.

>>

>> Any suggestions?

>>

>> TIA – Jeff.

>>

>>

Re: Transparent – does it work?

>
>

.

• References:

◆ Transparent – does it work?

◇ From: UJ

• Prev by Date: Re: Class diagram generator tool

• Next by Date: Re: Undoing JUST the a row delete

• Previous by thread: Re: Transparent – does it work?

• Next by thread: DataGrid scrollbar update \(bind\) problem

• Index(es):

◆ Date

◆ Thread