

strip

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/DotNet/microsoft.public.dotnet.languages.csharp/2006-04/msg02194.html>

- From: "John A Grandy" <johnagrandy-at-yahoo-dot-com>
 - Date: Thu, 13 Apr 2006 18:51:30 -0700
-

Let's say you are storing lots of URLs in XML files. So, for those with non-XML-compliant characters you use the `<![CDATA]>` construct ...

```
<Element1><![CDATA[http://overthetop.com?search=too%20much&sort=popularity]]></Element1>
```

Does .NET provide an intrinsic function that will strip the URL out of the `<![CDATA]>` construct ?