

Re: Post to a Form from VB.NET?

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/DotNet/microsoft.public.dotnet.languages.vb/2004-05/4141.html>

From: Chad Z. Hower aka Kudzu (cpub_at_hower.org)

Date: 05/19/04

Date: Wed, 19 May 2004 09:43:05 +0300

"Smoke" <smoke@netgate.com.uy> wrote in news:eC#RInUPEHA.2716@tk2msftngp13.phx.gbl:

> I did tryied that, and i was able to request a webpage or and post data > to a form using the GET method (passing parameters in the url) but not GET isnt exactly the same as post but is similar.

> able to understand how im suposed to POST data to a page, how do i > define which items i want to post? the names and the value pairs?

Yes, name and value pairs. Just call the POST method instead and either pass them in as a list of strings, or a stream.

> Suposed i have <http://internet.com/forum.asp> then i want to call that > page, but posting data, for example username=smoke password=blah, how im > suposed to post those values if not in the url?

The Post method takes an extra argument for the parameters.

--

Chad Z. Hower (a.k.a. Kudzu) - <http://www.hower.org/Kudzu/>

"Programming is an art form that fights back"

Get your ASP.NET in gear with IntraWeb!

<http://www.atozed.com/IntraWeb/>