

Re: newbie: Can I intercept specific keystrokes?

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/DotNet/microsoft.public.dotnet.languages.vb/2004-10/6513.html>

From: Herfried K. Wagner [MVP] (hirf-spam-me-here_at_gmx.at)

Date: 10/28/04

Date: Thu, 28 Oct 2004 22:26:52 +0200

"Carol" <Carol@discussions.microsoft.com> schrieb:

- > Is there a way to trigger an event when an individual key
- > is pressed, as well as with key combinations and function
- > keys? I want to trigger an event when the SHIFT key is
- > pressed. I also want this to happen whether the form has or
- > doesn't have the focus

You'll need a keyboard hook to capture these keystrokes system-wide:

Article on keyboard hooks:

<URL:http://www.developer.com/net/net/article.php/11087_2193301_1/>

Documentation on hooks:

<URL:http://msdn.microsoft.com/library/en-us/dnwui/html/msdn_hooks32.asp>

<URL:<http://msdn.microsoft.com/library/en-us/winui/winui/windowsuserinterface/windowing/hooks.asp>>

--

Herfried K. Wagner [MVP]

<URL:<http://dotnet.mvps.org/>>