I have an app that when running if a user selects logoff or shutdown from the start menu, it will close itself but not logoff windows or shutdown.

From what i have found so far its most likely something ive declared in my program that is preventing the logoff, i have tried closing and disposing forms and sql connections, is there anything else i should be looking for ?

You may want to watch for a shutdown and then terminate your application yourself instead of waiting for Windows to do so.

Take a look at 'SystemEvents.SessionEnding' too.
