

Re: Really fast method to check if host is online???

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/DotNet/microsoft.public.dotnet.languages.vb/2005-08/msg01735.html>

- From: "m.posseth" <posseth@xxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Fri, 12 Aug 2005 06:51:41 +0200
-

well i had a remoting project with exact the same problem , i solved this by sending UDP broadcasts on the network to discover when a server starts \ stops however this requires that on all computers a application is running that sends these messages

regards

Michel Posseth

"Terry Olsen" <tolsen64@xxxxxxxx> schreef in bericht news:%23ZEHL\$rnFHA.2484@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx
>I have a list of pc names that I need to go out and pull information > from. If they are all online, great! But when a PC is turned off (not > online), the program hangs for a good 40 seconds before moving on. Is > there a way for me to quickly see if a host is online or not? I'm > hoping for something less than 5 seconds per host.
>
>  Sent via Developersdex <http://www.developersdex.com> ***

• Follow-Ups:

- ◆ Re: Really fast method to check if host is online???
 ◇ From: Terry Olsen

• References:

- ◆ Really fast method to check if host is online???
 ◇ From: Terry Olsen

- Prev by Date: Re: Need help storing data
- Next by Date: Re: Framework 2.0 array redim unsatisfactory performance
- Previous by thread: Re: Really fast method to check if host is online???
- Next by thread: Re: Really fast method to check if host is online???

Re: Really fast method to check if host is online???

- Index(es):

- ◆ Date

- ◆ Thread