

Re: Think BEFORE you post.

Re: Think BEFORE you post.

---

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/DotNet/microsoft.public.dotnet.languages.vb/2006-10/msg00416.html>

---

- From: "RoninWarrior" <tonycullather.jr@xxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: 30 Sep 2006 05:54:05 -0700
-

I'm not opposed to you being a hypocritical asshat, just your ranting about it in here. I believe the reason someone set these forums up was for the purpose of COMMUNICATION. It certainly was not for the power hungry or ignorance to flourish.

Here's a new activity you can not ask questions about: restraint.

GhostInAK wrote:

Geezus. You people sicken me with your "we have to be nice to everyone" attitude. We don't have to be nice. We have the power. We have the ability to dispense it in any manner we choose. But this group seems to have a freakin bleeding heart complex. It's disgusting. Go back to your fuking hippy drum circle.

When I was a newbie I was told day after day (after a review of my code) that I was an idiot. Did I take offence? No. The critique came from an experienced programmer.. someone that would indeed know whether I was an idiot or not. I learned. And became less idiotic.

The problem here is not my attitude. The problem is the bleeding heart attitude of the people in the know here on this group. You perpetuate the idea that the newbies DESERVE our knowledge.. Knowledge that we spent years.. decades accumulating.. they somehow DESERVE this knowledge because they make a demand for it. Fuk that noise. You want my knowledge, you'll get it (or not) as I see fit to dispense it.

I would encourage the other wizards among this group to evaluate the road they traveling on their way to becoming a wizard. Evaluate it in the context of giving that knowledge away freely. It was a hard road. You don't have to be all PC nice to everyone. YOU DONT NEED THEM, THEY NEED YOU.

-Boo