

Re: Clear command window?

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/DotNet/microsoft.public.dotnet.languages.vb/2006-12/msg02740.html>

- From: "aaron.kempf@xxxxxxxx" <aaron.kempf@xxxxxxxx>
 - Date: 20 Dec 2006 09:50:48 -0800
-

yeah.. I do do plenty of VB6 still.

i just don't see long term growth for that; because Microsoft has killed off the language.

I think that you are confusing me with MP.. but yeah of course I write VB6 every day.
it's called 'Access Data Project' no DLL hell, nothing difficult to deal with.

just simple data entry and reporting.. and a couple of intranet sites here and there.

-Aaron

RobinS wrote:

I thought you said you have plenty of VB6.0 work, and that's why you've not been around as much, it's because you've been so busy doing your VB6.0 work that's just overflowing your inbox. So which is it? You can't have it both ways. You can't say they killed your programming career in one thread while saying you have more work than you can do in VB6 someplace else. Or am I confusing you with MP? If I am, maybe he could throw some work your way.

Robin S.

<aaron.kempf@xxxxxxxx> wrote in message
<news:1166561577.733135.166250@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>

notice the differentiation between 'programming' and 'database'

they killed my programming career-- it was the worlds' most popular programming language.. and now it's just GONE.

and I for one; have the BALLS to stand up for the users of the worlds'

Re: Clear command window?

most popular programming language.

If they're going to change VB every other year for the next 10 years;

I

just dont know if I see the point.

They already changed it fom VB6 to VB.net 2002 to VB.net 2003 to VB 2005.

they change the programming name THREE TIMES IN FIVE YEARS?

someone somewhere needs to stop coming up with corny cheesy monikers;

stop RENAMING NEWSGROUPS E