Firstly this isn't e-mail, this is a newsgroup.

Secondly, the message you posted on 8th August was a follow-up to a thread from August 2006, so it may well be that the contributors to that thread are no longer monitoring it. In general, if you don't get an answer on this group it probably means that you haven't described the problem sufficiently clearly for the volunteers on this group to understand your question. In that case where you're asking a question about a particular routine in VBA you may well be relying on just the author of that code to be able to help you.

If the other question to which you refer is the one on microsoft.public.excel.programming (thread entitled "message scroll like stock index screen"), then it is there (and visible in the archive on Google), so again your posting hasn't gone astray. I'm not a participant in that group, but my guess is that if you haven't had a reply it can't be done; it is, however only 5 days since you posted the message, and 2 of those days were a weekend, and it's in the middle of the holiday season in many countries, so you may be lucky and get a reply later.

If you want to check that your postings have got through (and whether they've got any replies), you can always search for them on the Google archive (though some users will start with their newsreader's search facility).

Hi,
I was in frequent touch for all the excel help i needed untill now, Suddenly all communication has been lost & my queries are not answered yet for the last week. I'm beginning to doubt if my mails are reaching you in the first place.

I've not had a response to this query,

Re: no responses...

I did also send a query on knowing how to scroll a message in a text box in excel.

I'm not sure whats happepng.

Somebody pls let me know.
Thnx
