

Re: Occurances of value

Source: <http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Excel/microsoft.public.excel.programming/2004-08/4862.html>

---

From: Todd Huttenstine (t.huttenstine_at_charter.net)

Date: 08/15/04

Date: Sun, 15 Aug 2004 00:48:06 -0400

Thanks

I do not believe I have ever had the need to use the countif function before in code, and I dont recall ever using it in a spreadhseet as a function either. I knew it seemed like an easy task. Thanks for your help.

Todd

"Trevor Shuttleworth" <Trevor@Shucks.demon.co.uk> wrote in message news:OLjPr%23jgEHA.3016@tk2msftngp13.phx.gbl...

> Todd

>

> one suggestion:

>

> Sub test()

> ' the best function would be: =COUNTIF(K40:K90,"dog")

> Dim FndVal As String

> Dim DogCount As String

> FndVal = "dog"

> MsgBox WorksheetFunction.CountIf(Range("K40:K90"), FndVal)

> ' or

> MsgBox WorksheetFunction.CountIf(Range("K40:K90"), "dog")

> End Sub

>

> Regards

>

> Trevor

>

>

> "Todd Huttenstine" <anonymous@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message > news:64e401c4823c$b4671680$a401280a@phx.gbl...

> > Hey guys

>>

>> I have values in range K40:K90. The variable called >> FndVal = "dog".

>>

>> Using the find function, how do I determine the number of >> occurances "dog" is found within this range?

microsoft.public.excel.programming: Re: Occurances of value

> >

> >

> > Todd

>

>