

Re: Saving current workbook

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Excel/microsoft.public.excel.programming/2005-12/msg06559.html>

- From: "Tom Ogilvy" <twogilvy@xxxxxxx>
 - Date: Sat, 31 Dec 2005 14:01:01 -0500
-

Thisworkbook.Save

or

ActiveWorkbook.Save

--

Regards,
Tom Ogilvy

"ccarmock" <ccarmock.20wsoy_1136040301.7008@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:ccarmock.20wsoy_1136040301.7008@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

>

> I have an Excel spreadsheet that uses VB to watch for entries in certain > cells. At times an 'audit' feature is triggered to write entries to a > protected sheet.

>

> There are a couple of these I would like to ensure get saved without > further intervention.

>

> I see there is a SaveAs function that could do this – but is there the > equivalent to simply save the current worksheet back as the same > filename that was used to open it? Ie the equivalent of clicking the > Save Disc icon.

>

> Regards
> Clive

>

>

> --

> ccarmock

>

> -----
> ccarmock's Profile:

> <http://www.excelforum.com/member.php?action=getinfo&userid=27670>

> View this thread: <http://www.excelforum.com/showthread.php?threadid=497154>

>

- References:

- ◆ Saving current workbook

- ◆ From: ccarmock

- Prev by Date: Re: how to create a new folder through a macro ??

- Next by Date: Re: paste to word document and save

- Previous by thread: Saving current workbook

- Next by thread: how to create a new folder through a macro ??

- Index(es):

- ◆ Date

- ◆ Thread