Hi all....this is my first time here so hope someone can help....What i have created is an excell file that will inport horse race odds to my sheet....i have created macros to sort the information and to calculate my bets...the problem i am having is i need to print the bets and thier amounts out in a plain text document for transfer to my betting account.....now the information i need printed is displayed in 5 diferent cells in a row and thereare up to 16 rows down depending on the amount of starters.....i need this information to be placed on a text document with out spaces or predefined spaces in this format

now all that information can be displayed on my document no problems...i just need it transfered to the text document automaticly..
