

Re: Journaling in Exchange 2003 and Attached Files in Messages

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Exchange/microsoft.public.exchange.admin/2004-08/4377.html>

---

From: Andy David – Exchange MVP (adavid\_at\_pleasekeepinngcheesebucket.com)

Date: 08/30/04

Date: Sun, 29 Aug 2004 21:46:27 -0400

Yes, the attachment is journaled as well.

On Sun, 29 Aug 2004 18:15:02 -0700, "Rui Saraiva" <RuiSaraiva@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote:

>Hi,

>I've read a lot of articles about standard and envelope journaling, but >anywhere was clearly said (black on white) that when an email (with an >attachment) is journaled, the journal account will also receive the original >attachment besides the body content of the message.

>This question is important in companies like my own, where we are used to >receive daily more than 2000 emails, and lots of them with attachments with >10~50MB.

>Thanks, in advance for your Help.

>

>Rui