Hi!

We are running Exchange Server 2003 on the server side and Outlook 2003 on the client side. Clients are complaining that they can not activate server side rules (error message from Q886616). The problem is that there is limitation of 32 Kb on the server (see Q147298).

The question comes here – is it possible to increase this limitation on the server side? Perhaps there is kind of registry key or smthng? Or it is hardcoded and restricted by design?

TIA,
