

Re: Blocking telnet connections

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Exchange/microsoft.public.exchange.admin/2005-05/msg00474.html>

- From: "Alex Zammit" <alex@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Thu, 5 May 2005 00:57:36 +0200
-

Let clear the basic point first. Telneting to port 25 is a way to access the SMTP transport. So what you are really asking is: Can I block port 25?

You can do that with a firewall, just make sure you don't block the flow of legitimate emails.

cheers,

Alexander Zammit
Software Development Consultant
Check out, ExchangeInbox.com the new MS Exchange Resource site at <http://www.exchangeinbox.com/>

"Stikfa" <Stikfa@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
<news:23BDCA56-6AA6-4E28-94DC-2B41DDE2558A@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
> How can I, or can I, block someone from connecting to my Exchange server > via > telnet and sending emails to my users?
>
> Thanks.

-
- References:
 - ◆ Blocking telnet connections
 - ◇ From: Stikfa
 - Prev by Date: Re: Outlook Mobile Access
 - Next by Date: Move Mailbox 5.5 to 2003
 - Previous by thread: Blocking telnet connections
 - Next by thread: Move Mailbox 5.5 to 2003
 - Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread