We have a school running one Exchange 2003 Enterprise server.
There is the default Administrative Group which contains the mailboxes for faculty/staff.

We'd like to give students mailboxes. Should I create a new Administrative group for them, or a new Storage group?

Which is recommended, which will give me more control, etc.

It looks like I can't change the message size for just the student mailboxes if I only create a Storage group.

thanks
