When did these problems start occurring? Do you recall if something changed in your environment that at the same time you started experiencing these problems?

Are there any other problems to do with AD?

Nuevo,

I tried sending an email but it says user isnt found. I cannot login owa.
All I can do is logon to the domain account.

Thanks

The application of permissions to "SELF" is the default behavior. They won't be stamped with the user's permissions until an email is received or the mailbox is opened. Given that you are not getting any errors and are choosing to create a mailbox it is unlikely that there is a problem.

Try creating a test account and associated mailbox and then give it a few minutes so you can put your feet up and then connect to the mailbox via OWA.

This will remove the Outlook variables. Test sending and receivng an email.

Hi All,

I create new users under resource but it isnt propagating. I can sign on to that user name but not to the outlook I dont see it in GAL
-Exchange 2003
-Not in cached mode
-Their are no errors in the even logs

I have: manually updated; dismount/remounted the store

Also I noticed under "mailbox rights" all i see is SELF. Usually this selection has a lot more then self and is automatically updated with all the permissions.
What is going on with my Active directory/Exchange Server?

Thanks
Joe
