Let me confirm that you are saying that you want user B to have rights to send as user A, and user B has Send As rights on user A's account in the Security tab. Is that correct?

Does any group to which user B belongs have Deny Send As set on user A's account? To be sure, look at the Advanced view.

Does Administrator or any group to which Administrator belongs have Send As on user A's account?

Okay here it is.

On the security tap in "mailbox store" The administrator has "Allow" in all of them, except "Special Permissions". My normal user was not there—

In Actice Directory on User A, The Administrator is not listed. But the other user is. The permissions the user have is:
"Send As"

The Way i am trying to make an "send as" is, by displaying the "from" field i outlook, and type Users A email adress.

But, as you know, it does not work. But i'm getting this error message:
(translated from danish)

"You dont have permission to send this message. Contact the systesadministrator to get help
MSEXCH:MSExchangeIS:/DC=local/DC=peersflyttefirma:SERVER

Re: Need Help regarding "send AS"

I hope this helps.

You are going to have to provide more details on your permissions then.

By default, Administrators do not have permission to Send As other user OR to open their mailboxes.

Go to the properties of your Mailbox Store, Security Tab. Please detail what rights the Administrator has, and if your normal user is also listed on this tab.

Next...

In Active Directory Users & Computers, go to the properties of the user you want people to Send As (call it user A). Go to the security tab. Is Administrator listed in there? If so, what permissions? Is the other user listed? Which specific permissions?

How are you trying to Send As? Be as detailed as possible. Are you using Outlook, displaying the From field, and choosing UserA as the From? If it doesn't work, what error do you receive?

Hey Ben.

Not on the administrator, but it still works
with the administrator.
It stil sticks on the normal user yes.

Where the user is located (OU or Users container) is irrelevant.

Is the Send As permission sticking? Meaning, if you go back to the properties of the account
you modified, say, 15 minutes later, is the Allow
box still checked next to Send As?
