

Re: 50Gigs of logs

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Exchange/microsoft.public.exchange.admin/2007-03/msg01912.html>

- From: "Susan" <sconkey@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Wed, 14 Mar 2007 15:14:51 -0700
-

did you select "Information Store" for the backup? that's what you need to do...or you're not getting an "online" backup...is the tape drive directly on the Exchange server? if you enable circular logging, you will be very sad if your server crashes or you need to restore a mailbox store/storage group...you will be missing all data since the last backup was taken...how long had this server been running without online backups being taken?

—

Susan Conkey [MVP]

"Igor Pinchevskiy" <sales@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message <news:1173910033.573352.269830@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>

Is there another way to clear the logs? Which backup utility would you recommend?

The way I did it was,

Start ntbakup then I select MS Exchange server and then I selected full, but after it completed the logs were still there is there something else I need to enable or disable?

Thanks,