Hi Multitech,

I had a similar problem awhile ago using the Junk Senders List in Outlook with Exchange.

By default, Exchange has a 512kb (cumulative for all lists combined) limit on the total size of the junk e-mail lists.

I adjusted this registry key on my Exchange server and havent had an issue since...

Registry key:

HKLM\System\CurrentControlSet\Services\MSExchangeIS\ParametersSystem

Value: Max Extended Rule Size

Type: DWORD

Data: maximum size, in bytes, you want to allow for the junk e-mail rule

<http://support.microsoft.com/kb/842510>

If this doesnt work, then as Alexander suggests give Microsoft PSS a call.

Please see what you can do. I have tried all this but can't seem to get rid of this error. Therefore i cannot use mailboxes

That is the place where to extend the Junk Folder list size. If that does not work I would contact MS PSS.

When I try to connect to exchange via webmail we get the following
error:
An
error occurred processing
your Junk E-mail lists. You are over the size
limit
allowed on the server.
Contact your server
administrator.
I checked the mailbox size
and it is fine.
