Is your wired network separate to your wireless access point? If so I would check for http/https timeout periods on the WAP (wireless access point). I mention this as you say it is fine when connected over your wired network.

Hi all, I have an interesting problem that I am stumbling with. When I access OWA using a wireless network I can login with no problem and access my mail but shortly after the login prompt comes up again. I login and then i am fine for another min. and then it pops up again and asks me to login. This continues 3 times and then i am totally bumped off OWA. When I use a wired network I do not have this problem. It's only when i'm wireless. Has anybody else had this problem? Can anybody offers suggestions? I have run out of things to try. Thanks.
