

Re: Obtain BCC information in Exchange Store event sink

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Exchange/microsoft.public.exchange.development/2004-05/0043.html>

From: Victor Ivanidze (no_at_spam.please)

Date: 05/07/04

Date: Fri, 7 May 2004 16:33:54 +0400

I just tested it. You do not need to to LDAP query as the message itself contains that address.

Using OutlookSpy, try to execute the following script:

```
With Mailitem.Recipients
For i=1 To .Count
  Debug.Print .Item(i).Name & " " & .Item(i).Address
Next End With
```

--

Regards,
Victor Ivanidze,
software developer
www.ivasoft.biz
"Jayashree Iyer" <smart_jayu@hotmail.com> wrote in message news:e04669a0.0405061029.67aacb3a@posting.google.com...
> I already considered that option; but the display name need not be > unique, and hence any lookup against the display name can return > multiple results. How do I ensure that the correct address is being > returned?