

Re: exdeploy dsscopescan problem

Source: <http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Exchange/microsoft.public.exchange.setup/2004-08/0458.html>

---

From: confused (confused\_at\_discussions.microsoft.com)

Date: 08/10/04

Date: Tue, 10 Aug 2004 11:59:02 -0700

"Gary Cooper" wrote:

- > Check for name resolution issues. Since you said you can add the account to
- > the local machine (admin group I assume), then when you look again it can
- > not resolve the SID, that sounds like that server is not using the same
- > DNS/WINS services the others are.
- >

it is a small lab testing setup so it is very simple – one wins dns server for the whole forest – and it is pointing to it, like everyone else. It can resolve machine names and domain names backwards and forwards and, i don't see how other domain accounts would be able to log on locally if it were a name resolution issue.

- > "confused" <confused@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message
- > news:A8959FC4-CF71-4976-8512-BE97D12033B5@microsoft.com...
- >> When trying to run dsscopescan, i get an error that I cannot connect to
- >> my
- >> exchange 5.5 server. My setup is as follows:
- >>
- >> – two site exchange 5.5 org. 1 server in each site, running 5.5/SP4 on
- >> winnt4 sp6a
- >> – windows 2003 forest with empty root domain and four child domains; all
- >> domains are windows 2000 mixed functional level except the child domain
- >> that
- >> includes the exchange server i cannot connect to via exdeploy
- >> – i am running exdeploy with an enterprise/schema admin account that has
- >> service admin rights to all exchange site and configuration levels and to
- >> the
- >> exchange org object.
- >> – i can log on locally to the exchange 5.5 server with this account
- >> – i can run the exdeploy dsscopescan on the 5.5 server in the other site
- >> successfully
- >> – when i try to bind to the 5.5 server using ldp.exe and the accounts ldap
- >> name:
- >> cn=administrator,cn=lab_domain,cn=admin
- >> it fails.

microsoft.public.exchange.setup: Re: exdeploy dsscopescan problem

> > – one last observation – on the 5.5 server, the forest root account i am > > using for exdeploy can be added as a local admin. However, when i reopen > > usrmgr on the local machine, the account in the administrators group says
> > 'Account unknown'.
> >
> > thanks.
>
>
>