

RE: Determining Organization name from Exchange backup?

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Exchange/microsoft.public.exchange.setup/2005-12/msg00523.html>

- From: "Alex" <Alex@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Fri, 30 Dec 2005 17:08:02 -0800
-

I found the Org name in the specified file, and I'm installing now. My Org name actually wasn't listed correctly in the location you specified (it was listed as a registry hex ID). However, it's listed elsewhere in the log. Anyone with this issue should also try searching the installation log for "org =", which is how I found mine.

Thanks again!

"Jonathan Norris" wrote:

```
> Did this help you Alex?
> --
> Jonathan
> No Warrenties Implied, Did you do a FULL backup today?????
>
>
>
>
> "Jonathan Norris" wrote:
>
>> Its in the root of your system drive (C:) BTW
>> --
>> Jonathan
>> No Warrenties Implied, Did you do a FULL backup today?????
>>
>>
>>
>> "Jonathan Norris" wrote:
>>
>>> Look for and restore/redirect the Exchange Setup Log (file on the root of the >>> C: drive called Exchange Server Setup Process log.txt) You should see the >>> name for the Organization there by doing a search and find for Organization.
>>> Example would be;
>>>
>>> :39:20] Checking to see if an Exchange org exists
>>> [10:39:21] Found the organization "GOLDEN DATA CENTER"
```

RE: Determining Organization name from Exchange backup?

>>>
>>> I have had to do this in the past for emergency calls from customers.
>>> --
>>> Jonathan
>>> No Warrenties Implied, Did you do a FULL backup today??????
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>> "Alex" wrote:
>>>
>>>> Hi there,
>>>>
>>>> We had a domain with a single 2003 Server running Exchange 2003 that had a >>>> catastrophic failure recently(bad RAID controller completely corrupted all >>>> the drives). For various reasons, the domain name has been changed and the >>>> server is being rebult from sratch.
>>>>
>>>> I have forgotten the Organization name, etc. and we only used Exchange for >>>> calendar/contact sharing (so I can't open a sent e-mail in notepad to view >>>> the info). I have an Exchange backup and a full computer backup from the >>>> night before.
>>>>
>>>> Is there any way to determine the previous Orgranization name, etc. from the >>>> backup BEFORE I install Exchange with the wrong info? Otherwise, how hard is >>>> it to change the Exchange Organization name after the fact so that I'm able >>>> to restore the backup?
>>>>
>>>> Thanks for your help!

• Follow-Ups:

- ◆ RE: Determining Organization name from Exchange backup?
 ◇ From: Jonathan Norris

- Prev by Date: Re: Exchange 2003 in a DMZ
- Next by Date: RE: Determining Organization name from Exchange backup?
- Previous by thread: Re: Exchange 2003 in a DMZ
- Next by thread: RE: Determining Organization name from Exchange backup?
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread