

Re: OWA

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Exchange/microsoft.public.exchange.setup/2006-04/msg00247.html>

- From: Alaa Al-Ankar <AlaaAlAnkar@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Wed, 12 Apr 2006 08:51:01 -0700
-

If you have integrated , then you will not have user and password prompt, you should logon to the mailbox for the user name logged on to the machine, for example if you logged in by using administrator user into the server or any pc , with integrated authentication, you will logon automatically to administrator mailbox.

if you logged on to pc with another user and accessed the OWA then you should logon to the user mailbox.

try to put the following in the user and password prompt :

Domain\User
Password

put the domain name before the user then follow it with forwarder slash "\" it should work.

please let me know if this post helped you.

regards

Alaa Al-Ankar

"Jared" wrote:

"Alaa Al-Ankar" <AlaaAlAnkar@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:OCE693C8-369F-454D-B8E5-5C6BD713F80A@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

Dear Jared,

Question 1: How you configured the Security for your Exchange Folder under IIS ? it is Basic or Windows Integrated ?

Re: OWA

Integrated

Q2: do you have a front end server ?

No

Q3: From where you are trying to access the OWA ? from internal ? or external ?

Both – Same result either way

Q4: if internal from what is the user name used to logon to the server from where you are trying to access the OWA ?

If I logon as "administrator" and go to <http://localhost/exchange> it logs me in automatically as administrator and works fine. If I login into the server as "Jared" and then go to the same address, it asks me for a username and password and will not let me login regardless of the login info. Except, I can enter administrator and the password and it lets me in.

waiting for your answers.

Regards

Alaa Al-Ankar

"Jared" wrote:

I cannot get the OWA to login with any other user except administrator.

I can go to <http://mail.????.com/exchange> and enter username: administrator
password: ????
and everything works fine.

If I try to login as:
username: jared

Re: OWA

Re: OWA

password: ????

The owa will not let me in. I have looked over everthing that I can find and everything seems to be set fine.

Exchange 2003

windows 2003 server

Any help is appreciated.