

Re: problem accessing MS Exchange 2003 from outside using OWA

---

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Exchange/microsoft.public.exchange2000.admin/2005-06/msg00191.html>

---

- From: "Leif Pedersen [MVP]" <leif.pedersenNOSPAM@xxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Sat, 11 Jun 2005 16:08:56 +0200
-

Hi,

You need to register a hostname in the external DNS (you could use the same name as the one registered for your MX record), and then it is best practice to get a certificate for the FQDN of the exchange server (like webmail.domain.com).

In an external browser you would then enter <https://webmail.domain.com/exchange>).

Leif

"John Leonard – Sage" <sagegrp@xxxxxxxxxxxx> skrev i en meddelelse
news:%23IvKFhobFHA.2180@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx
> I can use OWA from internal workstations and it works correctly. When I try > to access it remotely – all fails?
>
> I am using <http://exchangesrvname/exchange/username> i.e. jleonard.
>
> I have a Netopia router that has the ports open corretly. Meaning that all > outside E-mail is received ok!
>
> Am I over looking something?
>
> Thanks
>
>
>

-
- References:

Re: problem accessing MS Exchange 2003 from outside using OWA

◆ problem accessing MS Exchange 2003 from outside using OWA

◇ From: John Leonard – Sage

- Prev by Date: problem accessing MS Exchange 2003 from outside using OWA
- Next by Date: Re: Messages Disappear from Mailbox on Server
- Previous by thread: problem accessing MS Exchange 2003 from outside using OWA
- Index(es):
  - ◆ Date
  - ◆ Thread