I am running 4 exchange 2000 clusters in domain A on the west coast. 1 server is a bridge head server. I have offices on the east coast connecting to 1 exch2003 cluster server on domain B located on the west coast. I know migrated the offices in the east coast from domain B to domain A. They are experiencing very slow performance when opening attachment. Is their any way for me to increase the performance to speed up the opening of the attachments. The mail speed looks good its just opening attachments.

Thanks

FYI, Moving from exch2003 to exch2000 was a political decision. It's the way it has to be for now.
