Thanks I'll try this set and hopefully she'll get it.

The scary thing is that she's been working with FrontPage for almost 2 years and still can't do the simplest of things. I did a quick redesign of her site and had to make her a 6 page set of instructions in the most simplistic of terms (with screen caps that I edited in Photoshop to put in arrows and comments) just so she would know how to continue to edit her site. Then we went over everything on two separate occasions for several hours (and each time she told me she completely understood)... and she still has problems with her site.
