You use <layer> and <picture>, neither of which is legal HTML.

<http://www.w3.org/TR/html401/index/elements.html>

You have the value "hide" for the visibilty style, which is not valid.

Wonk out?...youse dunno what wonk-out means? :-)

Here take a look:

http://www.balletandfriends.org/nm\_photogallery\_coppelia04.htm

the above is norbal in IE6

BTW...Firefox is cool. There's all kinds of extensions you can add to it. I wonder if/when MS will update IE??? Haven't noticed difference in speed though.

| I use Firefox myself and can't remember whether they further compress or
| not. Other browsers further compress photos ... which, of course, is not a
| good thing. AOL is notorious for doing damage to photos. Here's an older
| article that I have on my site. I'll try to up date it soon.
